Background

Konrad Schampera has been a partner at SDZLEGAL SCHINDHELM, one of the leading law firms in Lower Silesia, since 2003. He has also had a second office in Warsaw since 2005. Konrad Schampera is the head of the German law department.

He studied law at the Rhenish Friedrich Wilhelm University in Bonn between 1988 and 1994. He completed his subsequent lawyer training at Bochum district court.

In the years 1997–2002, he was a freelance lawyer at Cottbus district court and in the years 2000–2002 he was approved as a lawyer at Dresden district court. He has been approved to practise as a lawyer at Potsdam district court since 2003. In the same year, Konrad Schampera was registered in the list of foreign lawyers at the district bar association in Wrocław.

From 2000 to 2002, he was the managing partner of an international law firm in Wrocław.

He is the arbitration judge at the arbitration court of the German–Polish Chamber of Foreign Trade in Warsaw.

Expertise

Konrad Schampera works as a lawyer since 1997. He advises domestic and foreign companies, in particular on company law and within the framework of litigation and dispute resolution. At SDZLEGAL SCHINDHELM, he is the head of the German law department and coordinates the other departments of the firm.

He has substantial experience in the advising of international companies who intend to commence commercial operations in Poland.

Due to his training and experience, his work incorporates in particular representation before German courts, offices, primarily in commercial and criminal matters, the establishment of various forms of commercial activities, the processing and negotiation of contracts with German partners, and the enforcement of claims.

He also supports clients before the arbitration courts in civil and commercial matters; at the same time, he is an arbitration judge at the arbitration court of the German–Polish Chamber of Foreign Trade in Warsaw.

He has also published articles on the topic of labour law and social security contributions in Poland.
